READY OR NOT...

HERE COME THE BULLDOGS

In the child's game of Hide and Seek, whoever is "it," hides his eyes as he counts to an agreed upon number. Then he shouts out, "Ready or not, here I come!"

Life, in general, and high school life, in particular, seems to illustrate that chant. Whether we are "ready or not," life marches on. Life demands that we cope, adjust, meet its challenges to be the best of whatever we are, but it does not stand still to wait until we are ready.

At age 14, ready or not, most of us are automatically freshmen. At age 18, ready or not, we bid farewell to high school and go on to a job, to a trade school, to college, or even enter into marriage.

"Ready or not" represents to us the challenge high school offers to us. If high school did not present us with specific challenges at various times, whether we are "ready or not," we might be forever at a standstill, just as in the child's game, without the chanted "Ready or not, here I come," a child might go on searching for the perfect hiding place.

"Ready or not" implies making the best possible preparation within a certain time period, and for this reason it symbolizes to us the challenges of the 1984-1985 school year. "Ready or not" we must start back to school at the designated hour. We must present ourselves at school each day at the prescribed time. We must go to classes, do assignments, take tests, play games, attend meetings, go to press — all at a particular time. To us the phrase represents the forward movement of high school and the ever-present time schedule within which school operates. But the very demands of this schedule require us to be constantly alert and ready, to advance, to do the very best we can within the time frame allowed us.

The raising of the flag signifies the start of a new day.

Each day begins by getting books for morning classes out of lockers.

All over town alarm clocks come to life with happy ringing, buzzing, and music. The responses they provoke consist of surprised yelps, unhappy groans, and soft mutterings.

Morning routines vary from person to person, but perhaps the most interesting are those of high school students.

From the ways they get themselves out of bed to the ways they choose their wardrobes, high school students are a sight in the morning. Some rip the covers off and sit up on the edge of the bed very quickly in an attempt to drive the sleep from their bodies, while others slowly and laboriously roll from the bed groaning about the early hour. While some students choose their apparel very carefully the night before, there are those on the other end of the scale who put on the first pair of jeans or sweatshirt they trip over while still half asleep.

Once a student gets himself up and off to school, what does he do?

At Crown Point High School he can do many things. By the time most of the students arrive here, the flag has been raised, signifying the start of a new day.

When a student gets to school, he usually seeks out his friends. Before school different groups of students congregate in various areas of the building depending on interests or maybe just habit. If a student is interested in drama, he would probably find his friends by the auditorium. If he is a music student, he will most likely go to the music hall or pop machines downstairs. Jocks can be found almost any place. If they are not at an early morning practice, they might be in the gym or pool area, in the cafeteria, or maybe just roaming the halls.

By habit, some students visit with a favorite teacher, do last-minute work on assignments, or get extra help in a class they are having trouble with.

Many students who don't especially like school usually meet outside and stay out as long as they can without risking being late for class. Most of these students have a particularly well-timed morning schedule, knowing where to be at what time and how much time they can spend there.

But no matter where a student and his friends happen to go in the morning, when that bell rings at 7:25,

READY OR NOT . . . HERE COME THE BULLDOGS

Students in Mr. Jerry Caravana's second hour business management class display different ways to spend their free time in class.

Kris Gursky (opposite page) enters her program into the computer in Mrs. Janich's second hour beginning computers class.

It's an average day at Crown Point High School. The sun is shining, and a slight breeze rustles the branches of the trees outside. Inside, the empty corridors ring with the hollow echoes of a teacher's footsteps.

Looking through doorways, an observer can see what is happening inside the classrooms. A geometry class struggles over proving theorems while general science students study the functions of a cell. Those studying industrial arts mold wood, plastic, and metal into anything from baby cribs to hammers, while upstairs in the home economics department students create with food and cloth.

Looking into more classrooms, an observer can discern the different ways to study. There are many ways to study, but most fall into one of three main categories. First there is the confused student who places his head as close as possible to his paper in hopes that the answers will find their way out of his jumbled brain and leap onto his paper. Then there is the girl whose mind is clear and works like a finely tuned time-piece. She sits back in her seat very relaxed as the words and numbers flow from her brain through her arm and out the end of her pen. Lastly, there is the teenager who closes his eyes and lets the information run across his mind like a computer print-out. Many teachers mistake this activity for sleeping, but this student is actually studying as hard as anyone else.

Many students become interested in their topics of study, but when the bell rings look out because

READY OR NOT . . .
HERE COME THE BULLDOGS

Rrrring! The last bell rings, ending the academic school day for the students of Crown Point High School. They rush to their lockers, thinking back over the day trying to remember for which classes they must take books home. Numbers on combination locks whiz by in a blur as kids work them to open the metal doors. Jackets are haphazardly thrown on and books extracted from the shelves that hold them. The doors are slammed with a clang, and life after classes begins.

For some students this means going to some type of practice. For some, late afternoon hours are spent at football, wrestling, track, or cross country practices. For others, the hours might be spent at band or choir practice. Students who are on the Windfall staff might go to room E117 to study photographs and drawings or read poems and short stories. Members of the Inklings staff weekly spend hours after school in E236 pasting up the paper to go to press, while Booster Club members make posters for dances and other school related activities.

There are many students who are not involved with extracurricular activities at school, and many of them head for their jobs. McDonald's, Burger King, Rax, and the Mall employ quite a few high school students from Crown Point as well as other schools in the area.

Still other students head for home after the last bell. Homework and television take up their time.

Weekends are spent at the movies, health clubs, roller rinks, and parties. Some kids complete their weekend assignments as soon as they get home on Friday, but others begin their weekend activities each Friday at 2:35, leaving their homework until Sunday night.

Regardless of what they do after 2:35,

Homecoming

Bulldogs play a 'devil of a game,' win 51-6 over Lowell

Homecoming began as any other ordinary day for the students of CPHS. The alarm clocks went off to the thundering of "Wake me up before you go, go!" But as the students entered the domain of the school, everyone realized that this was no ordinary Friday.

Graffiti decorated the walls of the building in a fashion typical of Lowell students. "Lowell are great," was the vandals' key phrase. By the time the first quarter of the football game was over, Lowell began doubting its greatness. Senior Dave Gutridge ran for six yards to score the six points that opened the game and put Crown Point on the scoreboard. Sophomore Jeff VanSlyke placed the ball between the uprights for the field goal that made the score 7-0.

On a similar play in the second quarter, the Bulldogs scored the points to make the game 14-0. Gutridge rushed another six yards to score, and VanSlyke kicked for the extra point.

Lowell scored its first and only touchdown on a 23-yard pass.

Tom Yohe, team co-captain and quarterback, ran six yards on his own to score the last touchdown of the half. Senior Mike Grah scored the extra point on a conversion play to close out the half 29-6.

Gutridge opened up the second half by running two yards. On a nine-yard pass from Yohe to senior Jim Greene, the Bulldogs scored again. VanSlyke's kick was good to make the score 42-6. Gutridge stepped one yard to make the score 48-6.

VanSlyke shut the scoreboard down as he scored the final points of the game on a field goal in the fourth quarter. The Bulldogs finished off the Red Devils with a final score of 51-6.

The float taking first place was a production of the senior class.

Couples share 'Autumn's Tender Moments'

The Homecoming excitement came to its peak at the Homecoming Dance. On the evening of October 13, teenage couples from Crown Point, Cedar Lake, and Lakes of the Four Seasons came together in the high school's cafeteria to celebrate another Homecoming victory by their beloved Bulldog football team.

Everyone was there, from the freshman class princess, Jodi Stemler, sophomore class princess, Tanya Martinez, and junior class princess, Terry Ashcraft, to Anne Kvachkoff, the Homecoming queen herself. The other girls who competed for the crown, Jenny Lambert, Lisa Rediger, and Patty Vicari, were all very happy for Anne and pleased that they had the honor of being chosen as the candidates for the title.

Art Equihua was chosen as the year's winner of the title of Mr. Football, and his competitors, Dave Gutridge, Tom McConnell, and Tom Yohe, extended hearty congratulations to him.

By the time the music played by Pegasus died down, the students who were sharing "Autumn's Tender Moments" were ready to place this year's Homecoming in their mental scrapbooks of high school memories.

Candidates for Mr. Football were Dave Gutridge, Tom Yohe, Art Equihua, and Tom McConnell.

Cheerleaders host annual Turnabout

The spirit of the holiday season came alive and was captured for one evening as 100 couples danced to the music of Dougal on Saturday, December 15, at the annual Turnabout Dance.

The brightly colored Christmas ornaments contrasted with the dimly lit cafeteria. Four Christmas trees and their lights adorned the room. A mirrored ball hung from the ceiling above the dance floor. The lights reflecting from the ball danced around the room leaving the impression of snow falling on the trees.

Turnabout was sponsored by the Crown Point High School cheerleaders as a fund raiser. Taft's eighth grade cheerleaders also assisted them in decorating, baking cookies, serving refreshments, and choosing the entertainment.

The band Dougal, made up of CPHS students Andy Britt, Matt Patterson, and Nick Trinoskey, and Dave Hetrick, set the mood for the evening with their music.

The cheerleaders tempted the appetites of the many dancers as they served a large assortment of Christmas cookies. Fruit punch was available to quench the thirst of the many people who attended the dance.

Turnabout queen and class princesses were chosen lottery style. Names were placed in boxes according to grades and chosen by a cheerleader who drew one card.

Matt Patterson and Andy Britt, members of Dougal, play their guitars for the dance.

Kim Kroner and Bob Biancotti catch the Christmas spirit as they dance together near the Christmas tree.

Jim Greco and Debbie Galocy dance to the music of Dougal.

Junior Kim Witten and Steve LaMore let the photographer's assistant pose them for their Turnabout photos.

Sophomore Lisa Struble wears a pair of paneled jeans, a white cotton oxford and matching pink vest, and a pair of slip-on moccasins. A short terraced haircut with large pink earrings accents the outfit.

Senior Polly Nondorf displays the one-length hair cuts that were popular while wearing a large oversized sweatshirt, an oxford untucked with the tail hanging out, and a pair of baggy Forenzas. Colored socks show through the shoes.

Sophomore Carmella Nix relaxes in a pair of cropped jeans, a sweatshirt with a fluorescent 'Y Not', and matching fluorescent socks.

— Fashion Plates —

Students follow fashion trends

They say that clothes say a lot about a person. There is no doubt about it as far as this year's fashions are considered.

Each group had its own look, and that look was a trademark. There were the preppies, new wave, and Forenza, but whatever the style, colors and patterns were really hot.

The preppies wore the usual boat-shoes, oxfords, pull-overs, and baggies. This is a casual style worn by almost everyone between the days of newer fashions. Preppie was also a very classic way to dress for a special occasion or just when the mood hit to get decked-out. An argyle sweater and oxford, dress pants or baggie cords, and a pair of slip on flats or pumps looked nice accented by a string of pearls or a gold chain. For the guys, penny loafers, cords, and an oxford went smartly with a matching pull-over sweater.

The new wave look consisted of just about anything ripped, worn, or painted until it was unrecognizable. Girls wore sweat-shirts with baggy or cropped jeans, lace hose, and any and all jewelry available. Hair was dyed in a variety of ways, and cut in many terraces in the back, very short on the sides, and long in the front.

The biggest new trend to hit the school was an out-branch of the new-wave. When the Forenza line of clothes hit, Crown Point got a whole new look. Stone washed denim jeans tucked into quarter-boots were not complete without a big Forenza sweater. Large beaded necklaces, with matching dangling, earrings completed the outfit.

Fashion went through many changes during the year, but the students kept up with them.

Junior Noah Burezyk shows the latest fashions for guys. Lace-up shoes, panted pants, and a long black jacket were the hottest trends in fashion.

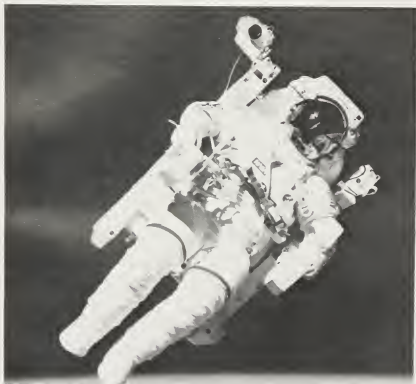

Junior Joyce Lain shows a popular hair style. Terraces and deeply cut layers on the top and sides of her hair with the back long and one length. Large, brightly colored, dangling earrings completed her colorful outfit.

Senior Laurie Holcomb and Junior Jill Kissinger dress in the casual look for CPHS. A shirt with a coordinating sweater over it, corduroys or jeans, and a pair of flat slip on shoes were commonly seen in the halls of the school.

Mission specialist Bruce McCandless strolls through space in the manned maneuvering unit. He was the first man historically to walk through space.

Mary Lou Retton captured America's heart this summer by winning the Olympic gold for the all-around gymnast, silver in team and vault competition, and bronze for floor exercise and uneven parallel bars.

The Statue of Liberty began a two-year renovation this year to restore her corroded and worn exterior. The nation banded together in hopes of returning the image of freedom to her original glory.

The United States Men's Gymnastics team received its first team medal in Olympic competition during the 1984 summer games. The members celebrate their victory during the awards ceremony.

People cope with world changes, calamities

During this school year, the world went through many changes. People had to react and keep up with all the blows thrown their way.

Even in the summer, before school began, the 1984 Olympics brought controversy from the very beginning. The Soviet nations boycotted the events. But the people reacted to the boycott with a fresh new feeling of friendship and unity that was evident from the opening ceremonies. As the Romanian team entered the Olympic Colosseum, the crowd erupted into applause, giving a standing ovation for the only Soviet nation to disregard the boycott and attend the games.

The 1984 Summer Olympics ended with the most elaborate celebration in Olympic history.

The Presidential election provided a major controversy across the nation. The incumbent Ronald Reagan was popular with his conservative economic reforms. Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro were hopeful because of the feminist issue. Geraldine Ferraro was the first woman candidate running for a presidential office. When her candidacy was announced, Ferraro said, "Vice-President, it has such a nice ring to it."

Terrorism and death plagued the world scene this year. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister of India, was murdered by her own Sikh security guards.

"I am not interested in a long life. I am not afraid of these things. I don't mind if my life goes in the service of this nation," Gandhi said the night before her assassination.

The USSR saw an influx of new heads of state. After months of ill health, Soviet leader Konstantin U. Chernenko died on March 10. He was succeeded by Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The people of Ethiopia cried out to the world in weak undernourished voices as a famine swept across the land. The desert in Ethiopia expands over a mile every year. Many charitable organizations were formed to send aid to the dying masses.

The Union Carbide plant in India claimed over 2,500 lives because of a chemical leak.

The medical field too had its advances. Heart surgery took a giant leap forward during the past year with several artificial heart implants.

The nation watched with fixed eyes as a baboon was sacrificed for the life of Baby Fae as she received a heart transplant. A baboon's heart replaced her failing heart. Baby Fae lived about three weeks after the operation.

These cases gave new hope to heart patients.

The 1984-85 school year had its chaos, the world was in a topsy-turvy state, and yet in spite of all the turmoil, Crown Point students still faced the world with hope for tomorrow.

Junior class hosts Prom at St. Elijah's Hall

Never before and probably never again will this group of teenagers be seen together in tuxedos and formal evening gowns.

Friends and acquaintances gathered together on May 4 for an evening of fun and laughter at the 1985 prom. At 7 p.m. students entered St. Elijah's Serbian Hall, arriving in Cadillacs, Fords, Chevys, and a few even had the luck to be driven by chauffeurs in limosines.

After enjoying dinner and conversation, students danced to the music of Pawnz.

At 9 p.m. a hush fell over the Prom crowd as the Queen and King candidates were escorted to the front of the dance floor.

The tension exploded as Jenny Lambert and Brant Tregellas were named to receive the crowns of Prom Nobility. Other candidates for the positions were Sheila Cope, Seurina Foeller, and Rita Miller, and Scott Becker, Steve Jovonovich, and Tom McConnell. After the crowning ceremony, Jenny and Brant shared a dance to the theme song of the Prom, "On the Wings of Love."

After dancing and laughing until 11 p.m., couples went their separate ways. They went to parties and traveled to Chicago until early morning.

The next day was spent at Great America, Chicago, and the beach.

Nostalgia unites seniors during ceremony

With shouts and yells of hallelujah! the Class of '85 graduated from CPHS on June 6, 1985.

At 7 p.m. the soon-to-be graduates started marching into the gymnasium to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance." After the Welcome, Invocation, and Valedictorians' speeches, Rev. Walter Puckett of the First Christian Church gave the baccalaureate message, "Reflections on a First Century Mugging."

Before being officially graduated, the class watched a video featuring seniors and the 1984-85 school year. This was a time for students to remember the highlights of the year's activities and everyday life of the students' last year at CPHS.

As a reminder to the graduating students that they are the future, the senior members of the choir sang "We Are The World." As Superintendent Charles Bigler announced the graduation of the class, the gym was filled with cheers from the gowned young people crowding the gym floor.

It was an event the Class of '85 will never forget — the day they ended their lives as high school students and began their lives as adults.

A small speech team, under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Kurrack and Mr. David Rosenbaum, competed in a number of meets with area schools. The Speech Club hosted a Novice and Varsity meet in January in which 300 students from 12 Indiana high schools participated. Crown Point's team took five awards.

Crown Point students excel in academics

This year seniors excelled in academic areas. Three students were honored with the title of valedictorian, and one student was named salutatorian. Tom McConnell, Lisa Rediger, Brant Tregellas and Kathy DeYoung were honored with these titles respectively.

Six students were named Merit Scholar finalists, the most Crown Point has ever had. Five other students were named Commended Scholars. The finalists were Mike Grah, Rich Seaman, Tracy McCracken, Andy Britt, Tom McConnell and Walter Lav-rinovich.

Seniors displaying involvement and interest in school activities were selected to be invited to the club meetings held by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. Students who were selected as Junior Rotarians met with the club for luncheons during an assigned month while the Junior Kiwanians met with their club for dinners. Both Junior Rotarians and Junior Kiwanians received the chance to observe club presentations and business discussions.

Ready or not

Excalibur staff meets deadlines, produces yearbook

Not very many students at Crown Point High school get the opportunity to create a special book that will commemorate the school year in a unique and colorful way. This is exactly what goes on in room E236 during fifth hour every day.

This year's Excalibur staff had the task of designing a book that specializes in capturing the school year in an exciting, yet original yearbook. They needed to have a new, special book designed especially for the year 1985. Challenges arose when the staff needed to choose the cover design, make layouts, and write copy.

Changes occurred because of the decision to take class pictures at a different time. The album section had to reschedule their year to fit the new system.

But during the hustle and bustle of flying papers, the struggle for word processors, and people coming in and out of the room constantly, the staff managed to come out with something unique. This uniqueness is captured in this year's theme: "Ready or Not, Here Come The Bulldogs!"

Technical Advances

Word processors make work more efficient for Inklings staff

Pressure mounts as the Inklings staff busily puts together eight full pages of news every two weeks. The newspaper is a fulltime commitment as the students work long hours at home and in school preparing their layouts for printing. This year's 33 members of the Inklings staff is composed of an inexperienced beginning journalism class and a newspaper staff combined. For each issue, staff members must crop pictures, complete layouts, and write articles to meet the deadlines.

The tapping of the typewriter is no longer heard in the Inklings office but has been replaced by the clack of the new word processors. This year the word processors gave the staff a more efficient way to write and edit articles. Faster does not always mean less frustrating, as a story on the processors can easily be erased by the slip of a finger if a staffer makes an error.

During Inklings hour there is never time to relax. A news paper is always in the making. This means work, work, work. However, the satisfaction the members feel in seeing the finished product is well worth all the hard work and time.

Lisa Struble, business manager, looks up phone numbers while Carmella Nix, advertising manager, gathers information for a business ad.

Windfall

Staff selects material, produces magazine

Windfall is a magazine composed of poetry, short stories, art work, and photography submitted by students throughout the year. Volunteers, under the guidance of Mrs. Laura Likens, committed themselves to stay after school once or twice a week to put the magazine together.

The literary contributions are given to the poetry and short story editors, and the artwork and photographs are given to the art and photography editors for evaluation on the basis of content and appeal. The editorial board, consisting of the editor, assistant editor, and editorial coordinator, does a final evaluation and selection.

After the staff types the selected material, it is sent to the printer to be typeset. When the staff gets the paste-up galleys back, the editors complete the book and return it to the printer for final printing. To keep the magazine in circulation, the students have to have funds. Windfall has an M & M sale in the fall and a carnation sale at the end of the year. The magazine also has patrons who donate money which helps pay for the publication. The rest of the money comes from the sale of the finished product.

Kathy Lunkes and Colleen Kersey select posters to hang in the halls.

Culture clubs

Clubs take field trips, gain experiences

Christmas with a scientific twist marked the science hallway this year. Senior David Caulfield created this Christmas scene by decorating a tree and adding items found in the Science Department.

The Biology Club, sponsored jointly by Mr. Charles Bowman and Mrs. Phyllis Wayco, took field trips to Purdue Vet and Med Schools. There they viewed an autopsy and the dissection of dogs and other animals. The Biology Club also visited Vector Lab, Lobar Lab, and Notre Dame University.

The Photography Club, sponsored by Mr. Al Gruber, had a busy year also. The group participated in photographic lighting sessions, critiqued pictures, and worked on projects to improve their picture-taking skills. A field trip to Burrell Colour Lab was also included in the club's activities.

The Art and Mural Club, sponsored by Miss Judy

Hames, added color and design with several projects. The club took part in a community project by making posters for the Northwestern Special Education Coop. The group also designed bulletin boards for the Homecoming dance and worked on illustrations for The Inklings.

Secret Pals

Student Council reveals secret pals at breakfast

The Student Council swung into action this year by organizing the Homecoming parade. The parade was once again a success. Council members arranged the floats and cars which carried the spirited groups. After arranging the cars and floats, the officers of the Student Council rode in the parade in a convertible.

At Christmas time the Student Council brought joy and cheer to needy boys and girls by sponsoring a toy drive. Each day during lunch hour, Student Council members pushed a cart through the cafeteria to collect toys students donated.

Again this year at Christmas time each Student Council member had two secret pals. These pals were either administrators, teachers, or members of the secretarial staff. The secret pals were revealed at the Teacher Appreciation Breakfast which the Student Council held for faculty and staff the Friday before Christmas break. At the breakfast, faculty and staff exchanged gifts with their secret pals.

The Student Council promoted spirit during the basketball and football season by sponsoring dances after the games.

Latin Club members travel on field trips, finance club activities

The Latin Club, a group of 135 members, is sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Kernagis. Each year, Latin Club attends a number of field trips. This year the group traveled to a Greek restaurant, the Field Museum, a planetarium, and a zoo. The enthusiastic group also traveled to Indianapolis to witness Governor Orr's signing a proclamation naming January 21-27 as Indiana Latin Week. The Latin Club journeyed to Indiana State University for a convention on April 19-20. Booster Club members set out once again to make a Homecoming Dance to remember. Preparing for the dance took a great deal of time. The main task was coming up with a theme. This year's theme was "Autumn's Tender Moments." Next, obtaining a band proved a difficult task, but they were able to get the band Pegasus. While creating the decorations, the Booster Club members spent several weeks with the Art Club in order to perfect every detail.

For the third year, the Booster Club planned and sponsored the Morp Dance. Morp comes from prom spelled backwards, which is the idea of the dance.

Drama Club, Thespians, Madrigals produce shows

Choirs receive perfect score in ISSMA

This year the Drama Club presented a comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman entitled "You Can't Take It With You." The play was directed by Mr. Marion Kellum and produced by senior Bill Carpenter. For two weeks in November, the 20-person cast displayed the wide variety of talent Crown Point's drama group has to offer.

The Drama Club also sponsored two pro-wrestling tournaments as fund raisers. The shows were held at the Crown Point High School gym and at the Taft Junior High School gym.

The drama class produced "St. George and the Dragon" for the Madrigals in Crown Point, Michigan City, and Portage. The club also did the technical work for "Classics '84."

The Thespians produced an original show called "Comedy

Tonight" in cabaret style.

The Madrigals' activities this year included the thirteenth annual series of Elizabethan Madrigal dinners. The dinners were held on the CPHS stage this year to create a Manor House atmosphere. The Madrigal Singers were honored by an invitation to present the entire dinner show in Michigan City for the Canterbury Theater and at Portage for the Portage Exchange Club.

The Madrigals also performed with the A Cappella Choir at the state Music Education Conference in Indianapolis, with the orchestra in a classical concert at the NCA Team Welcome Banquet, and for a State Farm Insurance dinner at Youche Country Club. At the ISSMA vocal contest, Crown Point received a perfect score.

The Pursuit of Happiness

Drama Club Presents "You Can't Take it With You"

The 1984-85 Drama Club performed "You Can't Take It With You" for its opening act of the school year. "You Can't Take It With You" was a play selected by Mr. Marion Kellum, drama instructor. This particular play hadn't been performed at Crown Point High School for the past decade. "You Can't Take It with You" is one of the top ten plays produced in the United States within the past ten years.

The Sycamore family in "You Can't Take It With You" takes the Constitution's guarantee of the pursuit of happiness very seriously. Outsiders seem to think that these lovable individualists are kooks. Unfortunately, Alice Sycamore, the unmarried daughter, has to present her family to her fiancé and, unexpectedly, to her fiancé's wealthy parents, the Kirbys. At first, the Kirbys are merely annoyed by the Sycamores, Alice's parents. Later, they become outraged by the fact that Alice decides not to marry Tony. Alice's grandpa finally steps in and convinces Mr. Kirby that their way of life is not only sane, but very happy as well. Alice reaccepts Tony's proposal and everyone sits down to a "fabulous" meal, including cornflakes and watermelon.

The participants of the 1984-85 Drama Club put forth their best effort for their performance. Mr. Kellum said, "They were an altogether enthusiastic group."

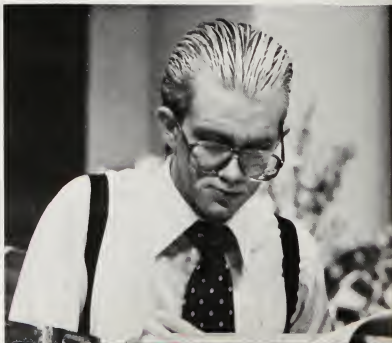

Chris Topa, lighting crewman, complements the role of the actors as he adjusts the instruments.

John Stroud (Boris Kolenkhov) pins Jerry Miller (Mr. Kirby) to the ground during a friendly wrestling match as their friends look on in astonishment.

Bill Carpenter, as Martin Vanderhoff, leafs through a stamp album during practice.

Donna McGinley (Penelope Sycamore) and Brett Shahbaz (Donald) display the excellent make-up job indicating the characters they portray.

George Gertz (Tony Kirby) enjoys the rehearsal as he receives a peck on the cheek from the two leading ladies Donna Daniels and Chris Willard as Alice Sycamore as they simultaneously rehearse the scene.

John Stroud (Boris Kolenkhov) gets into character before the performance begins.

The 'Sound of Music'

Students perform 'The Sound of Music'

The famous Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music" came to Crown Point High School and was met with large audiences. Putting on a well-known play such as this one was a difficult task that required hours and hours of practice, especially for the soloists.

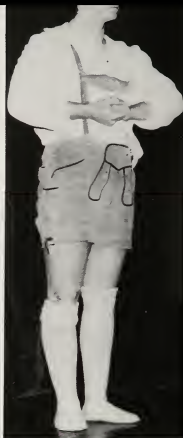

The play itself is composed mostly of solos with very few lines spoken by the actors. In effect, the actors had to be able to communicate to the audience with their body movements.

"The Sound of Music" is the story of a young woman on the verge of taking her vows as a nun. She is sent to be a governess of six children. Maria, the new governess, after a long string of others, teaches the children how to sing after many years of no music in the house.

Captain VonTrapp and Maria fall in love and are married. After the Nazis take over Austria, the VonTrapp family escapes by singing at the festival and quietly leaving as the audience waited for the announcement of the winners in the festival.

After the cast tryouts were held in early January, Barb Schwarz was cast as Maria Rainer. Captain VonTrapp was portrayed by Nick Trinoskey. Jerry Miller was cast as Max along with Kris Willard as Elsa. The VonTrapp children were Dana Henderson as Liesel, Mike Polomchak as Friederich, Laura Carl as Louisa, Albert Massa as Kurt, and Kerry Margis as Brigitta. Children in the play were Dee Dee Wilk as Marta and Corrie Box as Gretl. They were chosen by their elementary schools.

Tradition of Excellence

Crown Point hosts ISSMA solo and ensemble competition

Crown Point's symphony band, orchestra and sinfonietta continued their tradition of excellence this year. Crown Point hosted the Indiana State School Music Association, or ISSMA, Solo and Ensemble Contest on February 2. Fourteen members of the sinfonietta participated in this contest. Each of the members received good ratings in the contest. Jean Cherbak and Lori Szymanski both earned first division, first place ratings in violin solos.

Laurie Kallenbach, clarinetist, and Sam Ellis, violinist, belong to the Northwest Youth Symphony, a symphony composed of the top young musicians in the state of Indiana. Lori Szymanski and Jean Cherbak were also chosen for the All-State Orchestra along with 83 other young musicians from Indiana. The musicians presented the concert at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

The orchestra went to Six Flags, St. Louis. Members earned money with fund raisers for this trip. The Booster Club paid for half the trip expense, and the orchestra members paid the other half of the expense. To help pay for the expense, the group sold cheese and sausages, candy, pumpkins, and Christmas wreaths. They also held a paper drive.

The orchestra celebrated its tenth year anniversary with Mr. Jim Deal, who developed a nine-member orchestra into one of the most respected high school orchestras in the state of Indiana.

Royal Regiment marches to first in Band Festival

The Crown Point High School's 1984-85 Royal Regiment had a total of 115 members, 80 of whom were freshmen and sophomores.

The regiment, under the supervision of Mr. Rick DeWees, performed during many of the Crown Point High School's home football games. They also travelled to Hobart to present their show for pre-game enjoyment.

The Royal Regiment participated in many contests. The Midwestern Marching Band Festival at Indianapolis gave the Regiment a first division rating. The band was awarded a trophy for its outstanding Rifle Corps. The CPHS band also performed in the Lowell parade, receiving a first place.

The Royal Regiment participated in two ISSMA contests, including the Lewis Cass District Contest (first division rating) and the Marion Regional Contest (second division rating). At the Marion Regional Contest, the Royal Regiment fell five-tenths short of a point of receiving a first division rating.

The musical pieces that were selected for the regiment's performances were "Sun Cat," "Mirada," "Still," "Brand New Day," and "Bit O' Rhythm."

The Crown Point Royal Regiment's ranking at the end of the competitive season moved upward to a placing of 22nd in the state.

Gridiron greats Smith named coach of the year; Bulldogs tackle undefeated season

Strength, skill, hours of practice, and team unity produced the teamwork and spirit that drove the 1984 Bulldogs to their first undefeated season.

Hitting the gridiron with a new aggressiveness, the varsity Bulldogs rushed to a season record of 10-1, setting the school's all-time record for best season.

Community spirit supported the Bulldogs in a new way this year as the Bulldogs rose to fifth place in the AAAA division in state, the top division.

The one loss came in Crown Point's first try at playoff action as Crown Point challenged the perennial football greats, the Hobart Brickies. The team remained undefeated throughout regular season play and Lake Suburban Conference action.

Coach Brad Smith, winner of the Post Tribune's Coach of the Year Award, directed the team from the sidelines while the four senior co-captains, Tom Yohe, Tom McConnell, Artie Equihua, and Dave Gutridge, kept things moving on the field.

Tom McConnell and Tom Yohe were named to the Northern Indiana All-Star team. Various members of the team won other awards too numerous to mention. This year's team was the most successful football team in the school's 105 year history.

The junior varsity football team, under the coaching of Mr. Rich Svihra and Mr. Dave Teeter, finished the 1984 season with a 7-2 record overall, and 5-1 in conference contests.

The Bulldogs won their first three games. Crown Point defeated the Griffith Panthers 14-6. The Bulldogs edged past Michigan City Rogers by a score of 7-6. Crown Point bombed Highland 35-0.

Commenting on the season,

Coach Svihra said, "We played very well. We put together a good group on the field."

Crown Point ended its season with a victory as the Bulldogs beat the Valparaiso Vikings 14-13 in an exciting game. The Bulldogs led 8-7 in the third quarter. Valparaiso scored and led 13-8. Crown Point scored a touchdown with 2:09 left in the game and led 14-13. With 10 seconds remaining in the game, the Vikings missed a field goal attempt, and the Bulldogs won the game.

The freshmen football team concluded its 1984 season with an overall record of 8-1 and a conference record of 5-1.

Coach Chuck Smoljan commented, "We played a lot of close games throughout the year which showed the character of these freshmen. Their hard working, never-quit attitude was responsible for their success."

Harriers sport Regional win; Wilber runs to first in meet

With blood pounding in his ears, he races to the finish line. Each race is a new experience for the runner as he strives to break his personal record.

That was the driving force behind the runners of the boys' cross country team this year. The determination paid off because they ran to a Sectional title and are wearing the Regional crown also. Neal Wilber, Chad Stewart, and Jim Krampen were the captains this year. The dynamic trio left many other runners in the dust.

Wilber was the most valuable runner, Stewart was the most improved runner, and John Foyer was the most promising freshman.

Stewart and Krampen were named to the Lake Suburban Conference team. Wilber was named to the Indiana Track and Cross Country Coaches' All-State team.

Bulldogs run to sectional title Bragdon sets sectional record

Many hard practices and countless miles of summer running brought the girls' cross-country team to an 11-0 season, an improvement over last year's 10-2 season.

In the Fort Wayne, Culver, and Lake Central Invitationals, the girls' cross-country team placed first in each, in fields ranging from 7 to 13 teams. At the sectional meet the girls also came in first out of 11 teams.

Team captain and most valuable runner was Lisa

Bragdon. She was also named the Lake Suburban Conference individual champion. Most improved runner title went to Michelle Murga. The most promising freshman on the team was Kim Lewandowski. Lisa Bragdon, Lori Ray, and Sarah Demmon were named to the LSC All-Conference first team. Erica Hein was named to the LSC All-Conference second team.

"We had an excellent season, by far the most successful of my coaching experience.

Hard work and countless miles of summer running have brought the program to a peak. We attained several long-range goals this season. We had our first undefeated regular season, our first Sectional Championship, and advanced to the state finals for the first time ever. We will lose only one senior (Jenny Lambert) from our top five runners, so we should have another fine season next year," said Coach Ken Witt, commenting on the past season.

Netters win Sectionals, advance to Regional play

The boys' tennis team powered to a 15-5 record in regular season play in the '84 season. Led by Coach Scott Reid, the team traveled to sectionals and regionals. The Bulldogs stole three games in Sectionals from Andren, Highland, and Hobart, to reel in the Sectional Crown. Leaving the Sectional games kicking up in the dust, the Bulldogs advanced to Regional play, where they met with Munster. The team couldn't get the lasso around the Mustangs and ended up losing 5-0 to the Munster team. The loss to Munster stopped the Bulldogs in their tracks, as the season drew to a close.

Despite the Bulldogs' defeat in Regionals, the team did manage to nudge a second place finish in the Lake Suburban Conference. Crown Point zipped by five of its six opponents, and dropped only one match, to keep an undefeated conference standing just out of reach. The '84 seasons special award team player recipients are John Starr, winning the "Most Valuable Player"; Rick Caldwell, bagging the "Positive Mental Attitude Award"; and Adrian Garshnek, rolling in the "Most Improved Player Award." The graduating lettermen are Banashak, Caldwell, Starr, and Brian Spinks.

Returning lettermen lead team to 18 victories

Throughout a season of upsets and difficulties, the Lady Bulldogs' volleyball team bumped, spiked, dived, and served its way to the second best record in CPHS history.

With only four returning lettermen, the ladies were forced to virtually adjust their playing styles and forms to a new team each game.

After changing the lineup throughout the season, Coach

Sallee Malinich came up with the winning combination. As the season's end drew nearer, the team seemed to get better.

The Lady Bulldogs played to a regular season record of 16-14 and a conference record of 3-3. Including post-season play, their record was 18-18.

Senior Anne Kvachkoff played the season as captain. Coach Malinich named Kvachkoff most valuable player. Kvachkoff was also named to the all-conference first team.

Joyce Lain received the best mental attitude award. She was also named to the second all-conference team.

Senior Sheila Cope was awarded an honorable mention in conference.

Junior Diane DeMars was the most improved player on the team.

Led by second year coaches Ken Seaman and Belinda Wirtz, the girls' swimming team captured sixth place at the state meet in Indianapolis. The Lady Bullfrogs also took third in conference and fourth in sectionals, finishing their season with a meet record of eight wins, five losses, and one tie.

Throughout the year the team was led by swimmers Julie Hindson, Tricia Maloney, and Theresa Vasko. Hindson broke school records in the 50, 100, 200 freestyles, in the 200 individual medley, the 500 freestyle and the 100 butterfly. Maloney broke school records in the 100 breaststroke, and Vasko in the 100 backstroke.

Team wins over Rensselaer,

Hobart, Lake Central, and Merrillville, along with tough losses to Highland, Munster, and Chesterton during the season prepared the girls for conference and sectional meets in November. The lady swimmers also brought home a first-place trophy for winning the competitive "A" division in the LaPorte Invitational in September.

Major letter winners for the 1984 season included Becky Beckman, Alexis Clark, Kathy Collier, Eileen Donovan, Molly Donovan, Missy Frahm, Shelly Garber, Tena Gross, Kris Gutridge, Julie Hindson, Kim Hubbard, Dana Knaga, Tricia Maloney, Megan Marshall, Theresa Vasko, Patti Vicari, Chris Watland, Renee Wendt, Karen Wise and team manager Nikki Wilk.

Collier received the most valuable swimmer award while sophomore diver Renee Wendt received the most improved award. Seniors Becky Beckman and Chris Watland were chosen as co-captains to represent the team.

The diving team of Patti Vicari, Renee Wendt, Kris Gutridge, Kelli Bal, and Christy Garber took many firsts, adding needed points to the total meet scores. Even though the girls' team will lose many seniors this year, both coaches Seaman and Wirtz expect hard work and commitment and hope to have an even better season next year.

Valparaiso Jefferson was the first to defeat the "A" team as the Lady Bulldogs lost 28-32. The freshmen suffered their second defeat when they played rivals Lake Central and lost 34-38. Loss three of the overall season was to the "B" team as they lost to Chester-ton 19-30.

Bulldogs wrestle to a 10-5 record; Black leads team, competes at State

The 1984-85 varsity wrestlers, under Coach Scott Vlink, completed the season with 10 wins and 5 losses. Senior Dean Black with 29 wins and 9 losses qualified for State. Tim Cope was Regional senior champion with 31 wins and 2 losses. Regional qualifiers were juniors Mike Radovich with a 18-12 record and sophomore Steve Smith with a 18-12 record. The Semi-

State qualifiers were junior Jim Bogash with a 27-6 record, junior Dan Degani with a 27-8 record, and sophomore Jarrett Bothwell with 25 wins and 7 losses.

Junior varsity member Rob Rosenbaum led the team to a 12-4-2 record. Rob, along with Dan Bogash, won the Crown Point Freshman/Sophomore Tourney. According to Coach Vlink, the team started off slowly but learned fast. They won six out of their last seven to finish with a 9-10-1 record. The freshman record of 5-4 does not show the real achievements of the freshmen. Coach Vlink said many freshmen moved up to the junior varsity or possibly even the varsity level. Two freshmen wrestlers, Evan Rees and Terry Williams, earned varsity letters.

Varsity, JV cheerleaders win ribbons, spirit sticks

Cheerleaders are more than just "rah-rah girls" wearing short skirts, bobby socks, and big smiles. Practices, games, fund-raisers, sponsoring the Turnabout Dance and promoting school spirit are just some of the many tasks involved in the life of a cheerleader.

Preparing for camp occupies most of their summer. At camp, the cheerleaders learned cheers, dance routines, skits and line numbers. Both squads attended the United States Cheerleading Association (USCA) camp at Indiana University. The varsity squad attended camp from July 22-25. They received three superior ribbons, two excellent ribbons, and a spirit stick. The JV squad attended camp from August 7-11 and ended up taking home three superior ribbons, two excellent ribbons, and the spirit stick.

Both squads had a great time representing Crown Point's athletic teams with pride and enthusiasm. The male cheerleaders include Rob Petro, Greg Vale, John Sayers, Rick Melvin, Bill Green, and Joe Greco. They also joined in promoting school spirit and leading the teams to victory.

CP-ettes perform at games; Freshmen win spirit ribbon

The CP-ettes were one of the main events at athletic events this year. The pompon squad worked hard year around to perfect their routines for the upcoming sports events. The CP-ettes attended the National Cheerleading Association competition at Indiana University this summer. They spent four days learning dance routines and then competing against other squads. The CP-ettes won a trophy for being one of the top five squads to earn the most blue ribbons. Several girls won individual ribbons for their efforts.

Towards the latter part of the year, five new girls were added to the squad. These include Nancy Hill, Jan Lambert, Krista Patz, Theresa Minas, and Vicki Malone.

Captain Barbi Neely received a special honor. She was selected to perform at the Aloha Bowl in Hawaii. She is the first girl from Crown Point to have received such an honor.

The freshman cheerleaders attended the International Cheerleading Foundation camp at Notre Dame this summer. They left July 18 and returned July 21 with a spirit ribbon and a first place trophy.

During the year, the cheerleaders worked hard to root for the freshman football and basketball teams. The cheerleaders held fundraisers during the year which included selling candy, a car wash, and a garage sale. Most of their proceeds went toward cheerleading camp.

EPIDEMIC PROPORTIONS

Students show symptoms of senioritis

Soon after Christmas vacation, seniors begin to develop what is commonly known as senioritis. This feeling evolves from a variety of events, such as a busy academic schedule, after school jobs, or just the idea of breaking out of the same old school routine. Many are eager for their first taste of freedom. It seems that just over the horizon, seniors' futures are coming into focus. Some will continue with their education, while others will advance into the business world. This is a time when many decisions must be made. This fact alone places a tremendous amount of pressure on seniors, which causes them to think in terms of crawling out from under.

As time progresses and activities arise, the excitement builds and builds, until it seems as though that magical day will never arrive, the day when all will be united as one for the last time. After all, once senior year is over, it is gone forever.

Seniors listen attentively in Mrs. Donna Moser's world literature class.

Many seniors chose to continue their education by entering college. There were many decisions to be made concerning further education. In the United States there is a great variety of different colleges. Requirements varied as did the cost. Those who couldn't afford to go on campus, along with those who just wanted to stay home, enrolled at the near-by extensions. However, many students looked forward to spending their first year away from the home front. These seniors had to get used to the idea that they would have to fend for themselves as in preparing their meals and doing their own laundry. For many, these tasks seemed inconsequential compared to the freedom they would be receiving in turn. Seniors going on campus were also faced with decisions of whether to stay in the dorms or to join a sorority or fraternity. While most seniors were looking forward to the college parties, they also had to realize that they would have to tame it down enough to keep up with their studies. After all, that was the reason they were going to college in the first place. It was frequently rumored that college classes were much more difficult than those at the high school, but most seniors looked forward to the upcoming challenge.

PAYING THEIR OWN WAY

Seniors find jobs, pay their own way

Many seniors attempted to juggle a job, extracurricular activities, and their everyday school classes. For most, a job kept them hopping, and, unfortunately, they didn't have much time for leisure activities. While others sat at home in front of their television sets, enjoying a few hours of peace, working seniors were busily performing. It required a great amount of energy to smile and serve customers while thinking about all that homework that needed to be done upon arriving home. It would have been considerably easier not to have maintained a job, but for most it seemed an essential. The income from working helped pay for all those "little" extras and enhance savings for future education. Unfortunately, the job market for teens wasn't exactly booming, and those who wanted jobs, really had to search. Crown Point teens could be found working in such places as McDonald's, Burger King, Rax, and Dairy Queen. Although these places only paid students up to minimum wage, seniors found that every little bit helped. Although seniors found it difficult to maintain a job while going to school, most found it well worth the strain.

Academic Excellence

Juniors strive for grades in classes

It's 11 p.m., and a frustrated junior calls a friend to find out how to calculate nuclear energy or how to footnote a term paper. This was the story for the juniors who were brave enough to take chemistry or composition and grammar. Controversial term papers and complicated stories like "The Bear," by William Faulkner caused juniors many anxious hours. A few juniors also struggled through pre-calculus in which they tried to comprehend analytical math. In addition, many took advanced foreign languages in which they read novels or short stories in French and Spanish or struggled through the translations of Cicero. Still others took food and sewing courses, and others participated in the art and industrial art programs. By combining required and elective courses, everyone in the junior class found his or her niche. For the class of '86, their junior year was by far the most challenging and exciting yet!

Putting free time to work

Juniors keep busy with activities

At 2:35 p.m., as the last bell rings and students depart from school to go their separate ways, many hardworking juniors rush home and throw on a uniform and hurry off to work at their place of employment. These ambitious teens work at such places as McDonald's, Rax, and Key Market, to name a few. In addition to their jobs, many also maintained flourishing social lives. The juniors engaged in a variety of social activities, most of which were school oriented.

Weekends found some juniors in surrounding areas rooting on their athletic teams against rivals like Lowell, Merrillville, and Andrian. Students also enjoyed the post-game dances, which were a good time to release some extra energy with friends. Almost all participated in some type of club such as Foreign Language Clubs and Booster Club. Track, football, basketball and swimming were among the most popular sports. With such tight schedules, juniors learned to make better use of the free time available to them.

LOOKING AHEAD

Juniors make career choices

What am I going to do with my life? Many juniors found themselves asking this question. Too soon high school would be over and they had to decide whether they wanted to go to work after they graduated. Counselors, parents, and friends were invaluable to students in helping them make this crucial decision. Many visited or received information about colleges that further aided them in making their choice. If they made their choice of a college, they still had to decide on a major. Medicine, business, and computer programming were among the most common choices for careers. By the end of the year, juniors were looking forward to the future and their senior year at CPHS.

BEHIND THE WHEEL

Sophs learn in Driver's Ed

The summer before their sophomore year, students took the summer school course called Driver's Education. Every minute of the day students talked about being able to drive as the summer course approached. During the course students went to classroom studies for a couple of hours and then out to try their luck behind the steering wheel, sitting next to the instructor who watched the student carefully. After awhile the student became comfortable with the instructor and did fairly well. To be waived, a student had to receive a B- or better in the classroom and be able to drive aptly. If a student was waived, he only had to take the written exam when he went for his license. If the student was not waived, he had to take the written and driving exam when he went for his license. After the students got their licenses they had more responsibilities, like picking up little brothers and sisters or getting the groceries; but, they still enjoyed being able to drive and having more freedom.

Sophomores enjoy socializing

When Friday's 2:35 bell rings, the school week is over and the weekend begins. The bus ride home is filled with laughter and the making of weekend plans. Students had very different ideas of how to spend their time. Many girls spent their time shopping. The Southlake Mall attracted a great number of sophomores as well as other students. Fashion-conscious students always tried to bring their wardrobes up to date. Buying baggy clothes and brightly colored accessories accomplished this.

Depending on the season and the weather, sophomores could be found skiing at the Pines, rollerskating at the Crown Point rink or Omni, or sitting in cars at the Y & W. Warm weather activities were not restricted to trips to the beach, but bike rides and trips to Great America were also popular. Some Saturday afternoons were spent at the fairgrounds picnicking and tossing frisbees and softballs.

All this activity surely had to stir up appetites. McDonald's, Burger King, Dairy Queen, and Pizza Hut were all popular places to satisfy the hunger of students.

Whether skiing, watching movies, or eating out, the class of '87 proved to be seeking entertainment everywhere and finding it.

STUDYING

for tough classes

Sophomores found that classes get harder the farther you go in high school. Most of them took advanced classes in math, foreign languages, and English.

In the course of a day, students had to use their skills in logic, grammar, science, and math. Racking their brains for hidden bits and pieces of information ended up being one of many not-so-favorite pastimes of sophomore students during the year.

Learning new skills and perfecting old ones became one of the main objectives of the sophomore year.

A FRESH BEGINNING

Freshmen face joys, frustrations of high school

Eighth grade graduates join the high school scene with high hopes and enough ambition to tackle the hallways, homework, upperclassmen, and the school day in general as they begin their freshman year.

Every year the freshman class meets many firsts in the learning processes at CPHS.

These firsts include longer school days, more homework and tougher classes, a concern over grade point averages, a variety of clubs and activities to choose from, and for many, the first time experience of dates and dances. Turnabout was also an intriguing challenge to freshman girls as they had a chance to ask their dream date to the dance.

The freshmen also had to change their attitudes because they were no longer the upperclassmen. Being the underclassmen has some advantages. Among these are being able to make mistakes that you hope your friends won't remember when you are a senior. Freshmen also have the pleasure of meeting and becoming friends of the upperclassmen as well as being upperclassmen in the years to come.

As the freshmen completed their first year, they took along the experience and memories of their first year which helped shape them to what they are and will be.

FREE TIME

Freshmen get involved

In the freshman year students joined many activities. They experimented with sports, clubs, bands, choirs, and publications.

In sports, many freshmen participated on the frosh level. If an athlete excelled, he or she was moved to the junior varsity or even varsity levels. Those who didn't play on the higher levels just enjoyed the experiences of games, practices, and making new friends.

Freshman also joined many activities and clubs. Foreign language clubs were very popular, as were band, orchestra, and choir.

For many students, the freshman year marks the most school involvement, for as students progress through the educational system they lose free time for these activities because of harder courses, part-time jobs, dating and social events.

Most of the freshmen just enjoyed the new avenues of expression and took advantage of the time spent in their various extracurricular activities.

Ready or not . . . HERE WE COME!

All things must come to an end at some point. This is that point. This is the end of our book and the year. For the seniors, it is the end of their last year.

Games and seasons, classes and grading periods, dances and parties passed by and left us with the memories we have tried to capture in the preceding pages.

We all grew a little older and hopefully a little wiser as we studied, socialized, and experienced new people, places, and things.

Although we might try to deny it, we all changed in little ways with the passage of another year. People and events influenced our own actions and ways of thinking.

Good-byes are never easy, but the year is gone. We must now face another year ready for the challenges it will bring us.

Look out world . . . Ready or not, HERE WE COME!

Editor-in-chief

We would like to thank our adviser, Miss Eleanore Britton; our yearbook agent, Mr. Jim Sweeney of the Delmar Yearbook Company; Juli Callarie for her cover design; Root Photographers, and everyone else who helped bring the yearbook together.
